The Thyssen-Bornemisza Museum, is an art museum in Madrid, located near the Prado Museum at one of city's main Boulevards.

It is known as part of the "Golden Triangle of Art", which also includes the Prado and the Reina Sofia national galleries. The Thyssen-Bornemisza fills the historical gaps in its counterparts' collections: in the Prado's case this includes Italian primitives and works from the English, Dutch and German schools, while in the case of the Reina Sofia it concerns Impressionists, Expressionists and European and American paintings from the second half of the 20th century.

Later on visit to The Museum of Reina Sofia, Art Museum of the twentieth Century and Contemporary Art.

In the museum's permanent collection features a core of works by great Spanish artists of the twentieth century, especially Pablo Picasso, Salvador Dali and Joan Miro widely represented with some of his best works.

Very relevant are the collections of Surrealist art, Cubism (Picasso collection that adds names like Juan Gris, Georges Braque, Robert Delaunay, Fernand Leger O Albert Gleizes, and the presence of expressionist artists like Francis Bacon and Antonio Saura.
